BACCANO

THE REAL SLICE OF ITALY

INTERVIEW WITH RESTAURANT OWNERS ANTONIO CHIA AND ALESSANDRO PAZZAGLIA

Without a doubt, Miami has an overwhelming variety of choices when it comes to restaurants. Whichever way you look there are at least two places that serve food. With that being said, the quantity does not always translate into quality.

In this sea of restaurants, it is often hard to find an authentic, unique, friendly place that not only makes you comfortable, but that also serves food you'll be telling all your friends about. Once in a while, you stumble upon the one that will make you so happy you'll want to burst from excitement. And that's how I felt one day when I discovered Baccano restaurant while visiting Wynwood.

This place made me feel very welcome and warm. The food was absolutely amazing. And how can it not be? Both of the owners grew up in Italy in families that have ties to serving real, authentic Italian food since the late 1800s. Antonio and Alessandro, the owners of Baccano, were kind enough to share their story.

SFL: Can you tell us a little about your background and how you ended up having a restaurant?

Antonio: I was born in New York. However, I also grew up in Tuscany, in Montalcino, which is a little town, the heart of winemaking in Italy. In this town there was a very old café which belonged to Alessandro's parents. Since 1888 it was the place to go to every morning for the best cappuccino and cornetto, which is like a croissant. And my SFL: You have such an interesting logo; can you tell us about it?

Antonio: My father is a rather famous Italian artist from '80s New York. He's the one who designed the sculpture. The logo comes from that sculpture. I put the hat on him, which is not necessarily approved. And then because he's a mythological figure. And Baccano comes from Bacchus, the God of wine. So he's like the father of mankind, the father of wine and everything else.

SFL: What is your secret for having people come back over and over again?

"BE CREATIVE, BE CONSISTENT, AND KEEP IT SIMPLE " family also has been producing wine in Italy for a long time. So we both grew up in Italy and since childhood we always had been around food and food making, and not just any food – the real, Italian cuisine.

Years later, all grown up and now living in Miami, Antonio is looking to open up his first restaurant, but he really likes to have someone on his side who has expertise in the restaurant business. And that's when he accidentally runs into Alessandro's father, right here on South Beach, whom he had only seen in Tuscany. Both start talking and Antonio learns that Alessandro is also looking to open a restaurant here in Miami.

Antonio: So we get together, and we talk about the plan. And we realize that it's something that we have to do because it seems meant to be. In fact, here we are, and the restaurant is open, and we're doing well, and we're making some nice Neapolitan pizza and sharing our love of Italian food with the Miami crowd.

SFL: Why did you decide to open a restaurant here in Wynwood?

Antonio: I've been living in this neighborhood, in Wynwood, since 2010 when I was still in college. And I've been seeing this neighborhood grow, and I've been a part of its growth. So I wanted to invest in it.

Antonio and Alessandro rented a place which used to be an old garage. They "built" their restaurant with their own hands.

I took the picture, and I played around with it in Photoshop in order to get the current logo. I chose that because I needed an icon and a mascot for the restaurant. I've had this sculpture for a long time, and it's been everybody's favorite thing to take pictures with. He draws a lot of attention. And he's almost like a living thing. So it was a natural choice for being the logo and mascot of the restaurant and also ties in to the name Antonio: The good thing of the restaurant business is you're growing something. It's like a baby. You're growing something, and you see it progress. And you also see all the new people come in and say, "Oh, I love this place. I like what you've created. I like the food. I want to come back. I want to share this with my family. I want to share this with my friends." You create something that people enjoy.

Pizza is like the entire food pyramid!

Madeline Oles

For Italians who live in Miami area, Baccano is like a slice of home. A visit to Baccano to them is like taking a small trip back to Italy.

Alessandro: People always say it seems like it's not in America but like home.

Antonio: The food does its part because good food, in our case, good pizza, and also the products that we choose are ones that you can't necessarily find in another place. And the Pecorino cheese is the one that you can really only find in Tuscany. So the ingredients are a big part of it, the way that it's cooked. But also, we treat our customers like friends.

SFL: What are your specialty dishes?

Antonio: I would say the Rucolosa and the buffalo margarita. We have very special smoked mozzarella imported from Italy, which gives a very nice flavor to the pizza that I think is very hard to find in other places. We really try to bring in things that are hard to find in other places.

SFL: Have any celebrities been to your restaurant?

Antonio: Shepard Fairey, who is OBEY and probably the most famous street artist besides Banksy, was one of the first customers in the restaurant. And then after that, we've had quite a few artists because this is Wynwood, in the center of art district. And we also had Romero Britto a few times, whose office is down the street. And we also had Tokimonsta, who's a DJ. She's a well-known DJ.

Alessandro: Soccer players from Italy.

SFL: How do you measure the success of your restaurant?

Antonio: The success of the restaurant can be seen, firstly, by people's reaction to it. And you can see when somebody is genuinely excited to have found the place. Then they share with their friends. You see that they come back and they bring more people. And then those people bring more people. Then you start hearing other people saying, "Oh, I heard somebody else talk about your place, with somebody else in this other place." You see that the word starts spreading, "In Miami, when you want a really good pizza, you go to Baccano." And I've heard people say that. And I've heard people say that they've heard people say that. So I know at least from that perspective that the word has spread that it's a good pizza place in Miami. And I think that's the main goal.

SFL: What advice would you give to someone who wants to open a new restaurant?

Antonio: I would say be creative, be consistent, and keep it simple. Some of those things seem contradictory. But if you can manage to find a balance in those things, I think you'll have a successful business. Also, you need to choose the location properly.

SFL: What are your future plans?

Antonio: We want to grow the Baccano brand. Open a few more restaurants here in Miami.

"IN MIAMI, WHEN YOU WANT A REALLY GOOD PIZZA, YOU GO TO BACCANO."

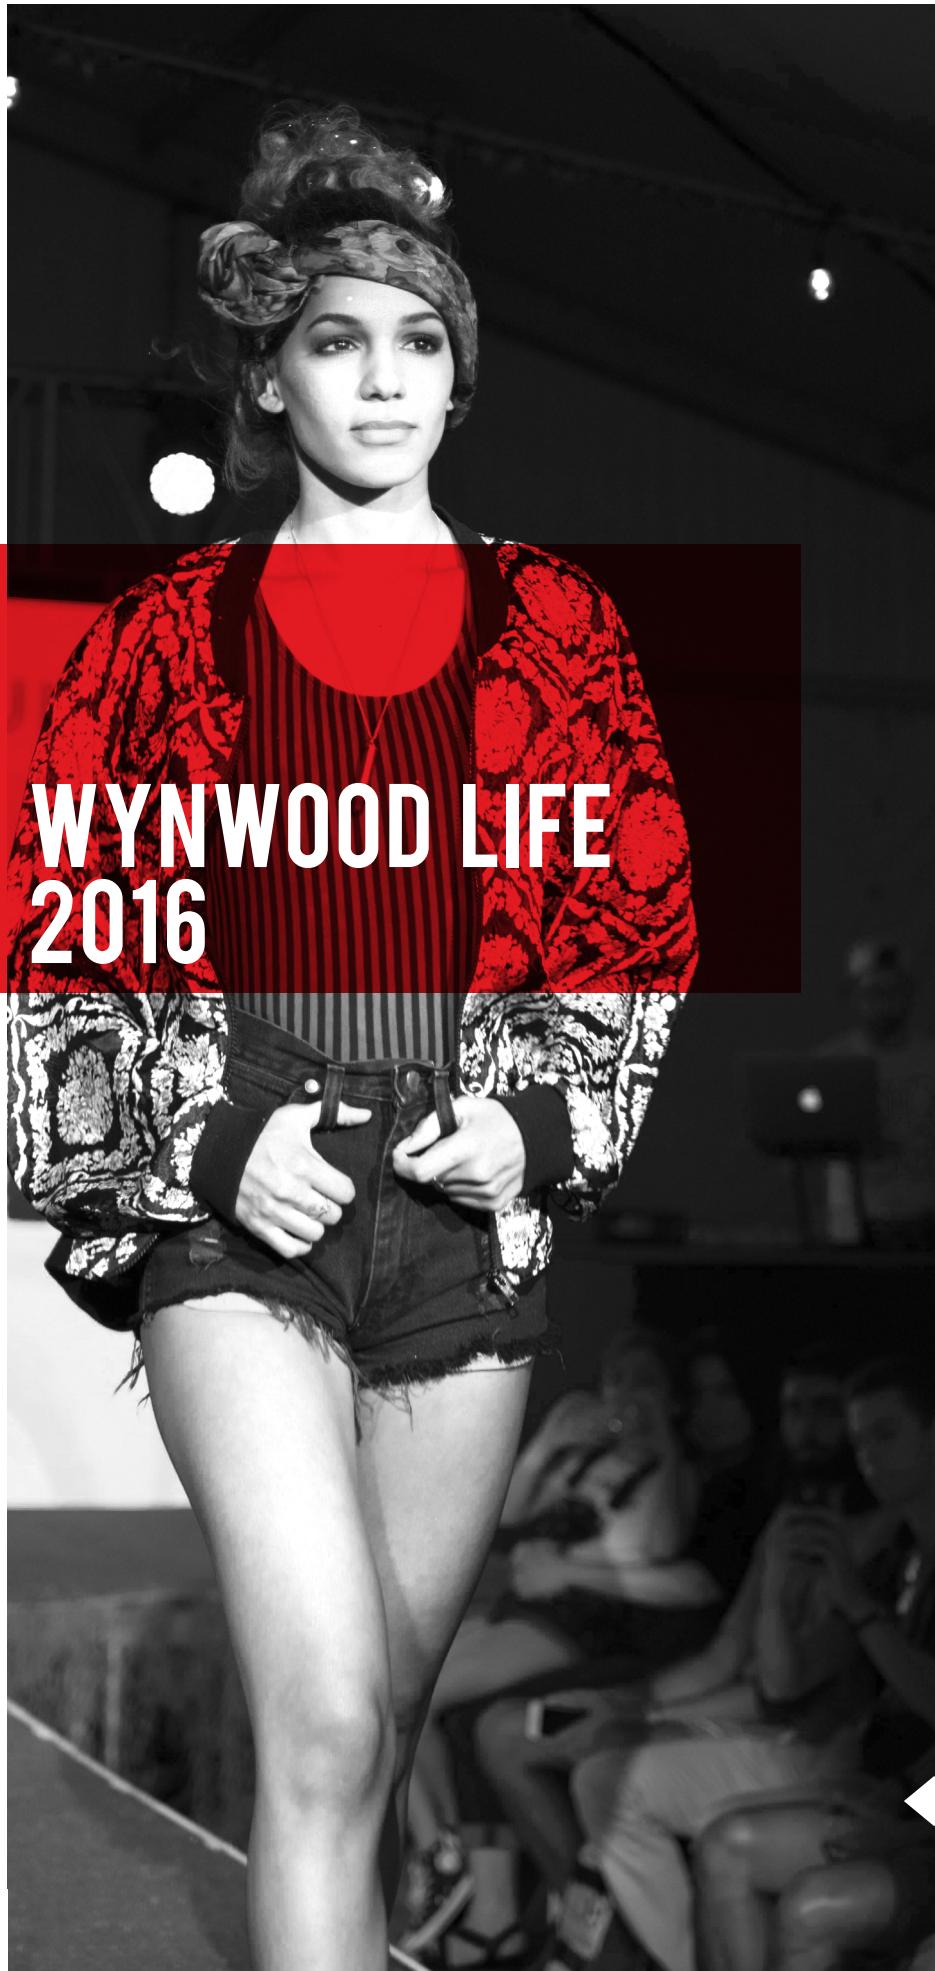

SFL: Name a few places in Miami you like to go and eat?

Alessandro: There's a small café in Ocean Drive called Pinocchio, meeting point for Italian people. Everybody goes there. We always go there for the Italian breakfast.

Antonio: It's normally sushi or some Mediterranean or other type of cuisine or Peruvian cuisine I've been really eating a lot lately. But also, we like trying new places too, more specifically in the area. Recently, I've been going to GKB, which is just down the street, which is a Peruvian-style place. Drunken Dragon on the beach is another one to go to. It's a Korean barbecue place. And lots of fish because we're in Miami, so fresh fish is #1. And for that, Casablanca on the river I like a lot.

Wynwood Life was back with a vengeance and took over the streets of Miami yet again. This spectacular 3-day event blends food, music, art, and of course, fashion. Wynwood Life is a street festival that aims at bringing all that we love and adore about Wynwood to life, literally, hence its name. Wynwood Life began as a blog, yes a blog! This blog shared upcoming trends and events in the district. However, that grew into a festival in 2014. With its growing numbers Wynwood life has become a must see event. Over 20 bands and DJs of local, hometown bands and even internationally acclaimed artists occupied the new big Live Music Stage. From Afro Beta, Miami's own Dj Laz to YING YANG Twins was in attendance. Every second was definitely a spectacular experience.

Over 150 of Miami's finest artist and vendors took part in the festival. The artist line up of painters, designers and illustrators that came together over the three day festival literally gave me life. The whole synergy of artists and musicians and vendors in one space was like nothing short of breathtaking.

For all my fashion junkies out there, Wynwood Life had an amazing venue offered at the event called The Style Lounge. The catwalk was lit with stunning runway shows that featured high-end couture, pop-up trunk shows and of course a girls second best friend specialty cocktails was a great accompaniment. From Thrifter and Haus Fashion to Jyork+ Dbrie Swim and Luli Fama showcased their absolutely stunning yet fierce fashion piece on the runway. My entire life was made with all the 'slayage' that was created. This year's staging of Wynwood life was surely a hit. It brought high energy, vibing ambiance and the best in art, music and fashion, nothing shy of amazing.

At the food corner they had Angelo Masarin from Midtown Oyster Bar, one of the best restaurants in Miami, giving a presentation and showing guests of the festival how to make authentic Italian sea food dishes.

One other thing that we have to mention is that the event itself was absolutely free to get in with no cover charge. I believe that Miami needs more events like Wynwood life which brings people of this beautiful city together to enjoy and celebrate life.

MUST VISIT PLACES IN SFL

BAYFRONT PARK MIAMI, DOWNTOWN

Bayfront Bayside Park is the ultimate place to discover fun, fashion, music and food. It is located in the heart of Miami; from between Bayfront Park south end to north American Airlines Arena.

The Bayfront Bayside Park opened its doors to the public back in 1987 and has grown tremendously. To this day, the park has garnered over 15 million visitors each year. Bayside also made several cameos on the iconic hit series "Miami Vice".

Bayfront Bayside Park is one of the best destination in Miami for dining. There is the famous Bubba Gump restaurant inspired by the 1994 film Forrest Gump movie. Whether you have a craving for some seafood, good old soulfood, or if you are like me, maybe you crave a little taste from back home with some good Latin or Cuban or Caribbean cuisine, Bayside is the place for you. Bayside is also home to everybody's favorite Hard Rock Café and Fat Tuesday.

Just about all fashionistas and shopaholics are going to freak out because when I say Bayside is the best place to shop I mean it, you can get your entire life here! One of the biggest shopping malls is right in the middle of Bayside. All the brand name products from clothing and accessories to shoes. You name it, they have it!

When it comes to authentic music and dance, nowhere else showcases that like Bayside. In my opinion, it is the only place in the country, hands down, that gives you an experience through the rich melting pot of Miami.

When living in Miami or just visiting, we often times beg the question, I wonder where all the celebrities live? Well, in Bayside there are a bunch of different cruises that offer a 90 minute tour which gives you a close-up of all the celebrity pads that are in and around Star Island. You also get spectacular scenic views of the many monuments and sites such as the Miami Skyline, Port Miami and some of the yachts owned by the rich and famous.

Need I say more about this amazing place. Head on over to Bayside, check it out and you see for yourself. You will have the time of your life.....guaranteed!

Hi, my name is Mariana. I live in Miami, but I am originally from Eastern Europe. I moved here not a long time ago and instantly fell in love with this city and its friendly people. My hobbies are modern art, fitness, and cooking. I always try to fill my life with positivity, kindness, and love. I also love animals, especially my little doggy Shedy.

Miami is an interesting city that captivates everyone who ever comes here. It's like it has some magical power to lure its visitors to keep coming back until they fully give in to it. It doesn't matter who you are or where you are coming from – no one can resist this city's inescapable vibe. The same happened to Claudia Romani, an international model and TV personality who came to Miami six years ago on vacation and fell in love with this city. These days Claudia, who was born and raised in Italy, is a full-time resident of Miami Beach. But Claudia is truly international so, even now, being oceans away from her fans and followers, it is not unusual to see paparazzi following Claudia all over the beach to take pictures of her in a bikini for their European media channels.

I met Claudia through a friend who introduced us at a charity event. Right away this well-spoken (by the way, she speaks four different languages), elegant woman captivated my attention with her charisma. Days later I was on a phone with her agent to schedule an interview. The interview took place on the rooftop of the beautiful Dream Hotel on Miami Beach. There couldn't be a more perfect setting including the view of the ocean, the sun, and the top view of Miami — everything to match this beautiful, talented, and super awesome person – Claudia Romani.

CLAUDIA ROMANI INTERVIEW

SFL: Please tell our readers a bit about your background.

Claudia: I am 100% Italian and proud of it. Both my parents still live there. I lived there until I finished high school, and then I decided to travel Europe a little bit. I felt that I needed to travel. I think it really enriches you.

SFL: As a little girl, did you want to be a model?

Claudia: I think that every little girl dreams a little bit of being a model.

SFL: Tell us about your family.

Claudia: I am from a small town in Italy. No one in my family ever did any entertainment. Actually, sometimes they think I [was] exchanged at birth. My dad is an engineer, and my mom is an art historian. When I was little I was shy, but I dreamed about [being a model].

SFL: What was your first, real modeling experience?

Claudia: When I was in Denmark to study I was scouted by FHM magazine. FHM is a Claudia: I was very excited, especially because models are usually very tall and skinny and I always wanted to stay myself, to stay natural. I wanted to be a role-model for girls — to show that even somebody normal with curves can be appreciated.

SFL: Modeling is about looks. What are your best features?

Claudia: I started in Denmark and, compared to local girls who were blonde with blue eyes, I was a bit darker, because I am an Italian, and also I had curves so my look was considered exotic. Growing up, I was a little insecure about my body, but then with time I started to appreciate the womanly shape. So I think that my curvy shape is one of my best features.

Of course I have to work hard to keep my body in shape. I like curves. I like hips. I like women with shape.

SFL: Are your parents supportive of your career path?

Claudia: My parents always wanted what's best for me. Sometimes they may be a little am the spokesperson for different soccer teams. But after doing the reality show in France I started to gain more and more female followers as well.

SFL: When you did the reality show, how close to the real you did you portray your TV persona?

Claudia: I like to do TV, but obviously reality shows are not 100% real, as people imagine. I kind of had a hard time with most things being scripted, because I really wanted to express myself in a different way. But it's definitely an experience I would do again. It's very different from modeling. It's very demanding and on a personal level it's really gets you to know yourself. Also, you don't know what people would think of you and that's challenging to me and I love challenges.

SFL: How do you feel when people recognize you in public?

Claudia: It's great. Obviously, if you work in this field you want to have some feedback so I enjoy it every time.

If you're not ready for a long waiting time and for rejection, for bad experiences, then you can't be a model. You have to have the look and the mindset for it.

featured magazine in Denmark. It's a pretty big man's magazine. They asked me to do a contest for them. So I did and I came in third place. From that moment a lot of doors opened for me. I was contacted by different agents and that's when I really started to work. I had to be very proactive. The magazine officially started my career, but from there it took a lot of hard work and dedication. It was more than twelve years ago. It did not just happen overnight.

SFL: FHM magazine named you as one of the top 100 sexiest people in the world. How did you feel emotionally when you found out?

bit worried about me travelling alone around the world, about wanting to do something unconventional, but as long as I am happy they are happy.

SFL: Who is your biggest supporter?

Claudia: Definitely my family and my boyfriend. I also have a fan club. I have some Italian guys that support me nonstop so I'm very fortunate. I also have some haters too, but that's part of the game.

SFL: Tell us about your fans.

Claudia: I have a lot of followers and most of them are men because I do a lot of sexy photo shoots and I also work a lot with soccer, as I

SFL: Who is your biggest critic?

Claudia: I'm very critical of myself. I consider myself a perfectionist and you know perfection doesn't exist. So I'm learning more and more to appreciate the fact that I'm natural.

SFL: Which A-list celebrities have you met and worked with?

Claudia: I met a lot of A-list celebrities. I've met Monica Bellucci. She's the icon of Italian beauty in the world, and my personal icon as well. I worked with Reese Witherspoon in London when I lived there. She was really, really down to earth, really fun and super nice. And so many others...

“NOTHING MAKES A WOMAN MORE BEAUTIFUL THAN THE BELIEF THAT SHE IS BEAUTIFUL.”

Sophia Loren

SFL: If you had a choice, which celebrity(s) would you like to collaborate or work with?

Claudia: I would really like to work with Miami celebrities because there are some great A-list celebrities here. I would love to work with the Estefans, the Iglesiases and Pit Bull. I actually had a chance to be in a few of his videos.

SFL: Tell us about working with Pit Bull.

Claudia: I have worked with him a few times since I moved to Miami. I did a music video with Jencarlos Canela, and it was very fun. I love the Latin music. There was also David Bisbal, who is a big singer from Spain that I had the chance to work with. At that time I had been working with the Latin show Mega TV for about six months. So I had the chance to meet a lot of the Latin celebrities.

SFL: Going back to when you started and knowing what you know now, what would you do differently?

Claudia: Just take the risk. Take more chances. As a perfectionist, I think about things a lot. Now I'm a little more adventurous.

SFL: What advice would you give to a young girl who wants to become a model?

Claudia: I think any girl who wants to be a model has to be really determined because it's not something that happens easily. I work sometimes with young girls and I see that they find it hard to wake up early, because they party the night before, or to show up when the weather is not perfect. You have to be ready. If you're not ready for a long waiting time and for rejection, for bad experiences, then you can't be a model. You have to have the look and the mindset for it.

SFL: What are your future plans?

Claudia: I want to keep on modeling. I definitely want to do more TV.

SFL: You are big in Europe, but now you live in Miami, so how does it fit with your career?

Claudia: Well, I live in Miami, but I constantly continue working for European and international markets. So I have to travel a lot. Also, I do a lot for the Latin market. And now more and more American websites and publications starting to talk about me. I'm very active on social media. I believe that nowadays a lot is done through the online media so I hope everyone will want to see my work and start to follow me. I wish for the readers to keep on following my future projects on my media at Claudia Romani on Snapchat, Instagram, Facebook, and Twitter.

SFL: Your three favorite places to eat in Miami?

Claudia: I'm a vegetarian and I like to eat healthy so I would definitely go to Books and Books on Lincoln Road, because they have a lot of vegetarian and even vegan options. I love their style. I also enjoy Juice and Java on Washington Avenue for the same reasons. They have a lot of vegetarian options. And then as a true Italian I like Blocks Pizza Deli, because they have a very Italian pizza blocks. For any Italian it's the best place to go.

The interview continued for a few hours and it was an absolute pleasure to learn more about this fascinating woman. If you want to find more about Claudia and her work then watch the entire interview with more photos of Claudia on our website at www.sflstyle.com

MIAMI STYLE BARBEQUE

INGREDIENTS

1. 4 pounds pork spareribs
2. 1 cup brown sugar
3. 1/4 cup ketchup
4. 1/4 cup soy sauce
5. 1/4 cup Worcestershire sauce
6. 1/4 cup rum
7. 1/2 cup chile sauce
8. 2 cloves garlic, crushed
9. 1 teaspoon dry mustard
10. 1 dash ground black pepper

DIRECTIONS

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F (175 degrees C). Cut spareribs into serving size portions, wrap in double thickness of foil, and bake for 1 1/2 hours. Unwrap, and drain drippings. (I usually freeze the drippings to use later in soups.) Place ribs in a large roasting pan.

In a bowl, mix together brown sugar, ketchup, soy sauce, Worcestershire sauce, rum, chile sauce, garlic, mustard, and pepper. Coat ribs with sauce and marinate at room temperature for 1 hour, or refrigerate overnight.

Preheat grill for medium heat. Position grate four inches above heat source.

Brush grill grate with oil. Place ribs on grill, and cook for 30 minutes, basting with marinade.

AQUAGIRL 2016 AQUALICIOUS POOL PARTY

THE LARGEST CHARITY WOMEN'S WEEK IN THE COUNTRY

May 14th 2016, Aqua Girl hosted their signature 'Aqualicious' Pool Party event at the Raleigh hotel on Miami Beach.

Hundreds of gorgeous women from all over the country and abroad attended this famous pool party presented by Aqua Girl organizers.

The guests were partying poolside and dancing to the beat of live DJs with cocktails on deck. The event had it all - thousands of hot, scantily-clad women, pool, cocktails, and hot performances by sexy go-go vixens. Believe me; it doesn't get no more Aqualicious than that! The party continued all day to a backdrop of the latest and hottest hip-hop and house at this simply splashing, fun-filled event.

Gorgeous women from all over the country attend this spectacular weekend, some for the first time, some staples since its inception. 100% of the proceeds benefitting the AQUA campaign provides the much-needed funding for grants and scholarships given to lesbian, bisexual and transgendered community in South Florida.

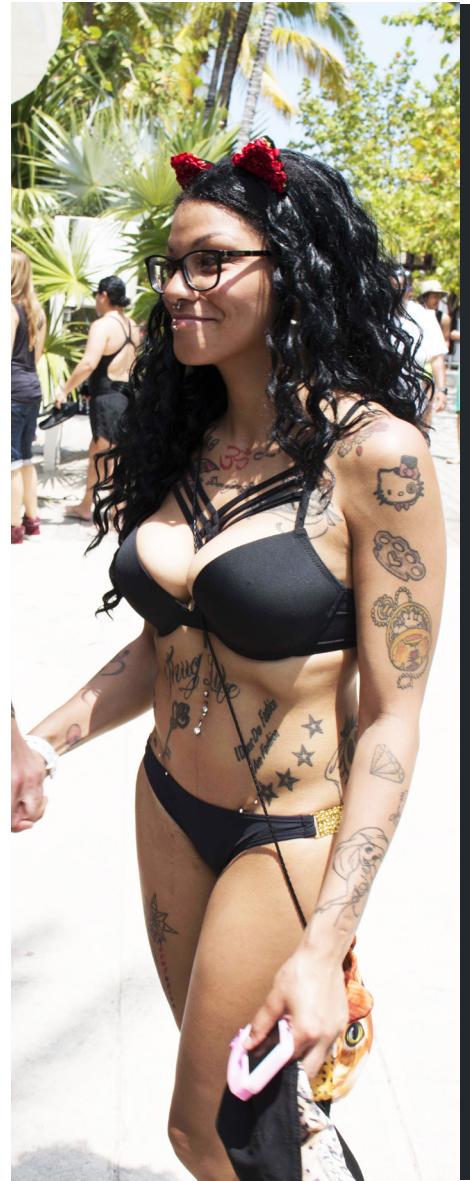

Fast forward to today Aqua Girl has grown tremendously in numbers and has since gotten a lot of attention. Aqua Girl is like the who's who of 'Girl Power' event to have ever existed. It has even expanded its events due to the traction and support they have growingly received.

Presently they offer a wide variety of cocktail receptions, gourmet dinners and an art exhibit. The signature 'Aqualicious' Pool Party event ushers in thousands of gorgeous women partying poolside and dancing to the latest hits of live DJs and performers.
